

Security Log-In advisory

When you have Security Log-In and Multiuser enabled and are logged in as a System Administrator, please be aware of the following special recovery requirements:

- If you sort devices in the Multiuser Configuration display, you can become locked out of the Obsession system and the device you use to perform the sort will be unresponsive. Recover by rebooting the system.
- In a similar situation, you can become locked out of the Obsession system if you delete any device in the Multiuser Configuration display. Recover by logging in again.

These issues arise only when you are logged in as a System Administrator with Security Log-In enabled. When logged in as a different operator, you cannot sort or delete devices in that display. To perform the functions and avoid the extra recovery operations, disable Security Log-In first.

ETC plans changes to the next release of Obsession Software to enable you to perform these functions with Security Log-In enabled.
